

limited view on what makes them unique. I love seeing the “A-Ha” moments, when the brand messages come together. Most recently, I was working with a firm and they started the session saying “We are not big on glitz and glamour. We built the company on good business and a handshake with clients. We’re pretty unsophisticated in our approach, but clients are loyal”. That will no longer sell.

About the Author: Danielle Feroletto, MA, CPSM,

